

ABSTRACT

A notebook computer includes a monitor having a frame, a speaker device having a housing to receive one or more speaker members. The housing includes a casing having a space to receive 5 the frame and to attach the casing and the housing to the frame of the monitor. A spring blade or one or more fasteners may further be used to secure the speaker device to the monitor, for allowing the speaker device to be easily carried with the monitor. The securing device includes one or more fasteners to secure the casing and the 10 housing to the frame of the monitor, or may include an adhesive member to secure the casing to the frame of the monitor.